

David Robertson

David is a professional software developer with three decades of experience. He is also a resilient survivor of sexual abuse. David is passionate about applying his skills to make a positive impact, whether through developing technology, supporting charities, or mentoring others.